Many Axis Planes Trapped

Air Base

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 28.—(INS)—Switching from heavy bombs to a hailstorm of lighter explosives, Maj. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's air fleet swooped over the Deimomannu airdrome in Sardinia and raked the field with 4,000 fragmentation packets in a new, devastating attack. Allied spokesmen announced today.

Many Axis planes, trapped on the ground at the Sardinian air base, were destroyed or badly damaged where they stood. Thirteen additional enemy aircraft out of a formation of more than 30 German and Italian warplanes, which attacked the raiders were shot down during a 25-mile running dogfight. Only one Lightning was downed and the pilot was rescued.

The Axis air formation pulled its customary trick of launching its attack on the American planes by plummeting out of a blinding sun and for 18 minutes the wheeling formations locked in deadly combat over the Mediterranean.

Two-thirds of the enemy interceptors, it was said, came swooping down against P-49 fighters, which promptly shot six out of the sky. Meanwhile the bombers, busy battling the remainder of the Axis planes, shot down seven.

Powerful formations at the same moment were hitting the nearby airdrome at Villacidro, Sardinian base from which many Axis planes

Food Conference Agrees On Basic Requirements

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 28.—(INS)—United Nations Food Conference nutrition experts have agreed in principle, it was learned today, on the basic food requirements which they believe will lift post-war mankind to a level of health and efficiency unequalled in history.

The standards which form the basis of the program evolving from the work of the conference's important section on food "consumption levels and requirements" are yet to be drafted. But key members of the panel—representing the best minds on the subject in the Allied world—declared there was no disagreement on their findings.

This work of drafting, along with that of other conference sections, gave rise to official indications that it might not be possible to wind up the first international parley on its scheduled adjournment day—June 3.

At worst, spokesmen said, however, the deliberations would not likely be extended more than one day.

In this connection, the immensity of the task before the food conference and its successors—the proposed interim commission and any later permanent world organization—was stressed by British delegation chairman, Richard K. Law, last night, in a radio speech from Hot Springs.

Governor Martin Signs Parole Bill

HARRISBURG, May 28.—Governor Martin yesterday signed into law the Jones bill revising the State's uniform parole system, but withheld appointment of the three-member board of parole created by the act.

The measure, which abolished the five-man board established by the 1941 law, becomes effective June 1. The Governor gave no indication today when he would name the new board, although he told a press conference last week that he hoped to announce the appointments this week.

The revised law, sponsored by Senator Adrian H. Jones (R., Luzerne), was accepted by the Republican-controlled Legislature as a compromise after plans were dropped to wipe out the 1941 system in its entirety, as proposed by Senator H. Jerome Jaspian, Philadelphia Democrat.

In addition to setting up a three-man board, the Jones Act cuts the salaries of board members from $10,000 annually to $9,000 with a drop in the salary of the chairman from $10,500 to $10,000.

It also establishes for the first time the right of appeal from decisions of the Parole Board to the State Pardon Board and gives the Governor and the board the right to name 10 district supervisors, heretofore appointed under civil service. It also gives out the job of general director of paroles.

The Governor also signed 30 other bills today and vetoed four.

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANEED BY SCRIBES

The third one-car automobile accident investigated by the officers of the Doylestown sub-station of Motor Police in two days, occurred Wednesday.

The victim is Mrs. Doris Bernhardt, 28, Lambertville, N. J., a guard at the Johnsville plant of the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation.

Mrs. Bernhardt was on her way to work when her car skidded at the bottom of Canada hill, near La-haska, ran off the highway and struck a concrete culvert. She was brought to the Doylestown Emergency Hospital by Robert Corbin of Spring Valley. Mrs. Bernhardt

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Can It Be Done Again?

Washington, May 27. PASSAGE BY the House of the poll tax repeal bill, coupled with the speech in New York by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in which she urged repeal of all poll taxes, recalls that it was in 1936 the strategists of the Roosevelt Administration brought off what many regarded—and with reason—one of the cleverest coups in all political history.

THIS CONSISTED in taking away from the Republicans in the Northern States their great basic asset of the solid Negro vote while using loyalty to the Democratic label to keep the South, where political prejudice against the Negro is strongest, within the party line.

17 TO GET DIPLOMAS AT WARRINGTON TWP.

Miss Genevieve Bowen Will Be the Speaker On This Occasion

TO BE HELD JUNE 2

PLEASANTVILLE, May 28.—Miss Genevieve Bowen, elementary supervisor of schools of Bucks County, will deliver the address at the commencement of the eighth grade pupils of the Warrington township schools on June 2nd. On that occasion 17 boys and girls will be presented their promotion certificates.

Another feature of the exercises will be the presentation of the English award of the past presidents of the Warrington Women's Club. This will be in charge of Mrs. William J. Kelly, a member of the club and also a member of the school board.

Members of the class will be presented their diplomas by Mrs. Florence D. Titus.

The program will be rendered in the following order: Organ prelude, Miss E. Margaret Kratz; invocation, Rev. Alfred C. Bartholomew; address of welcome, Alvin Cohen; recitation, "A Court Room Scene," Vincent Cogliola; trumpet solo, Richard Detweiler; patriotic selection, "My Country," Anna Hill; "The Constitution," Nils Hedin; "The Flag," Joseph Almond; and "We Are the Garrison Guarding the Homeland," Regina Wells; folk songs, "Pietro's Hat," "Saint Marie," "In the Plaza" and "The Fisher Maiden," choral group under direction of Marie Barton Griffin.

Recitation, "If You Are Good," Robert Loux; class history, Fagie Cohen; creed of '43, Abraham Cohen; reading, "The Carnation," Walter Conti; class will, Anna Marie Seese; class presentation, Kenneth Fluck; accordion solo, Rose Reichle; graduates' poem, Morton Wexler; farewell address, Edward Miller; address, Miss Bowen; presentation of diplomas and benediction, Rev. Bartholomew.

Members of the class are as follows: Joseph Almond, Vincent Cogliola, Abraham, Alvin and Fagie Cohen, Walter Conti; Richard Detweiler, Kenneth Fluck, Nils Hedin, Ronald Lewis, Robert C. Loux, Edward A. Miller, Anna M. Seese, Anna Hill, Kenneth Walker, Regina Wells and Morton Wexler.

Says New Ways Must Be Found For Family Life

STATE COLLEGE, May 28.—(INS)—What has been the war's effect upon American children? Mrs. Sidonie M. Gruenberg, director of the Child Study Association of America told an audience recently at Pennsylvania State College that new ways for family living must be formed to build character in children.

The home today is not all-inclusive in character building as in earlier, more peaceful times when families were large and world conditions more stable. Mrs. Gruenberg asserted. Children today are mainly from small families and the family is just one little unit which has no guidance or pattern for its relationship to the child in a world of change and turmoil.

Mrs. Gruenberg said new patterns for family living must accomplish the following things:

1. Make the child feel he is important in the family. A feeling of insecurity or not being wanted at home is one of the causes of juvenile delinquency.
2. Develop respect for the personality of each member of the family. Everybody has rights. The home must not be child-centered, father-dominated, or mother-martyred.
3. Keep the child from being both neglected and over-protected. Shielding the child too much destroys self-confidence and prevents the development of a well-integrated personality.
4. Help the mother to feel that she is right in having interests outside the home. Women are confused because they do not know which should come first—their duties as mothers or as war-workers.
5. Develop child care services for all families.

ELKS BANQUET

The annual banquet of Bristol Lodge of Elks was held last evening in the Elks home, Radcliffe street. A capacity crowd was served. In addition to the banquet there was a program of entertainment.

STRIKE SETTLED

The strike at the plant of Badenhausen Corporation at Cornwells Heights has been settled, and employees have returned to their work, it is stated.

PROCLAMATION

I earnestly call upon our citizenry to honor the memory of our deceased soldiers on Memorial Day, Sunday, May 30th, by displaying the American Flag at half-staff from sunrise until 12 o'clock noon and at full-staff from 12 o'clock noon until sunset.

Paying tribute and honor to the memory of those who so gallantly fought for the establishment of a country based upon the principles of freedom and equality, is fitting and appropriate on this occasion, more so than ever before due to the fact that those principles and doctrines are being assailed and threatened by those of tyrannical minds and despotic natures.

I request the co-operation of our citizens in aiding in a proper program, fittingly honoring the memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice on the field of battle that America might live.

Burgess.

DELIVERIES AND BUS SCHEDULES CURTAILED

Neibauer Company Puts
New Bus Schedule Into Effect Tomorrow

MILK DELIVERIES CUT

Curtailed deliveries by the ODT is making itself felt in this area today by the curtailment of bus schedules and deliveries of milk. A number of the pumps of gasoline dealers are also drying up with sales being limited to three gallons to a customer.

The Keystone Dairy Company today announced that deliveries of milk will be made "every-other-day," beginning today. The next delivery may be either tomorrow or Sunday. Customers are asked to buy a full two-day supply of milk, cream and other dairy products.

The Dyer Dairy started their curtailment yesterday and ask their customers to co-operate by learning what time the milk man calls and thus arrange for keeping a supply on hand.

The Neibauer Bus Company puts a new schedule into effect beginning tomorrow. All bus schedules have been curtailed due to shortage in gasoline supply. The public is asked to restrict travel to essential needs.

One of the greatest changes in the bus schedule is that of the local bus. This bus will be discontinued entirely on Sundays.

Couple Thrown Into River When Boat Upsets

A young man and a young woman narrowly escaped drowning in the Delaware river yesterday afternoon when their sailboat capsized, off the Burlington Island wharf.

Miss Betty McLintic, Maple Shade, and Ken Anderson, Bristol, were thrown into the water and folks on this side of the river seeking their plight, sent in an alarm for help.

The Bristol Blood Donors, Goodwill Rescue Squad and the Bucks County Rescue Squad all responded to the call.

Boatmen went to the scene and Miss McLintic and Anderson were pulled into one of the boats and then the sailboat was towed to the Mill street dock where it was righted under the direction of Harbor Master Edward Dougherty.

Miss McLintic said: "We seemed to be going along all right until suddenly something happened and we tipped over."

Some Stores To Close Wednesday Afternoons

Following the practice begun in 1938, those local Mill street stores which are co-operating with the Mill Street Business Men's Association will again close Wednesday afternoons and evenings during the months of June, July and August.

A majority of the stores, however, have indicated an intent to remain open the first Wednesday in June, because of the fact that stores will be closed Monday, May 31st, in observance of Memorial Day.

Those stores which have been closing Thursday evenings will continue the practice of closing every Thursday evening as usual.

SPURN VACATIONS

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS)—Students in Ohio State University's "Twilight School" have voted that they want no summer vacation in these war times. Consequently full-credit university courses are to be offered at night in the summer as well as other quarters, officials announced.

SERVICE COMMITTEE

The next meeting of Third Ward Service Committee is scheduled for Wednesday evening, June 2nd, at eight o'clock, in the Good Will Hose Co. station. Refreshments are to be served.

TO BE ORDAINED

JOHN L. PIETERS
Son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pieters, of Edgely, will be ordained to the priesthood in Philadelphia on Saturday.

Every member of the Laurel Bend Parent-Teacher Association attending last evening's meeting at the Laurel Bend school house showed a patriotic spirit by walking to the event. Some walked as far as two miles each way.

This was the final meeting for the season, and a "doggie" roast followed on the school grounds. Members provided their own refreshments.

Earl Mullin was re-elected president for the ensuing year; with Harry Hughes selected as vice-president; Miss Lois Dayhoff, secretary; and Mrs. Clarence King, treasurer.

The P. T. A. is providing refreshments for the picnic which will be tendered the pupils on the school grounds today.

Throughout the summer months money will be raised for the organization by means of card parties in private homes; and also by means of patches of money on a shirt which will be circulated.

Divorce Is Granted To The Gleasons

DOYLESTOWN, May 28.—A divorce decree was handed down in Bucks County court this week, it being that of a Bristol Township couple; and two other Bucks County residents asked for divorces.

The divorce granted by Judge Calvin S. Boyer is in the case of Ruth A. Gleason against Henry A. Gleason. The grounds were indignities to the person. The couple were wed at Media on May 19, 1926.

The libellants in the two cases entered are the wives.

Desertion is charged by Emily M. Orr, Pond street, Bristol, who names her husband, C. Thomas Orr, whose address is unknown, respondent in this suit. The couple were married December 9, 1918, by Rev. Francis H. Tees, in Bristol.

Hazel E. Norman, 118 E. Richardson avenue, Langhorne, also charges her husband, Leon C. Norman, with desertion and names him respondent. The present address of the respondent is: c/o Berks County Sanatorium, Bernville, Reading. They were married May 12, 1931, and the desertion took place from July 7, 1932.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

By International News Service
Germany's battered industrial Ruhr Valley was blasted anew early today by big British bombers which rained death and destruction on Essen, home of the huge Krupp armament works.

As hundreds of massive four-engined Lancasters, Stirlings and Halifaxes returned before dawn from the Essen attack and nine-laying operations in enemy waters, new waves of RAF warplanes streaked across the channel in the direction of northern France.

The British Air Ministry conceded the loss of 23 bombers in the Ruhr and mine-laying raids, indicating at least 400 planes took part.

Ensign George K. Lynch and wife, Boston, Mass., spent the weekend with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin G. Lynch, Radcliffe street.

Consider "Portal-to-Portal" Pay Issue

Washington—Negotiations between United Mine Workers Chief John L. Lewis and the nation's mine operators went into their third day with the two factions trying to work out an agreement on the "portal-to-portal" pay issue.

Former Senator Edward R. Burke, spokesman for the southern operators, was reported to have informally suggested a compromise payment for 48 minutes of "travel time" which would give the miners about 80 cents a day.

The miners insist, however, that they spend an hour and a half a day in travel from the mine gates to the pits and return, full payment for which would give them about a $2-a-day pay boost.

That the two sides were making offers and counter-offers was viewed as marking the beginning of genuine collective bargaining for the first time since the conference began on March 16 and then became hopelessly deadlocked, leading to the miners' strike.

Establish Office of War Mobilization

Washington—In a move to speed up and streamline the war effort, President Roosevelt today established an Office of War Mobilization.

The new supreme war directing body will be headed by James F. Byrnes, who is resigning as economic stabilization director in order to assume his new post.

A War Mobilization Committee will be established within the new organization. The committee will include the secretaries of war and navy, the chairman of the Munitions Assignments Board, and Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board.

The President also announced that Judge Fred M. Vinson, of Kentucky, has been named to succeed Byrnes as economic stabilization director. Vinson also will serve on the war mobilization committee.

The President's action followed weeks of widespread protests against the Office of Price Administration and internal rows within the War Production Board over the management of the war effort on the home front.

President Roosevelt said that the new committee will "lay down unified policies and develop integrated programs and will see that the policies established and programs developed are expedited."

"We are entering a phase of the war effort when we must streamline our activities, avoid duplication and overlapping, eliminate interdepartmental friction, make decisions with dispatch, and keep our military machine and our essential civilian economy running in team and at high speed," a statement by Mr. Roosevelt said.

Denies Food Costs Control Cost of Living

HARRISBURG, May 28.—(INS)—Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst denies that food costs are the controlling factor in the overall rise in the cost of living. A rather prevalent tendency on the part of consumers to feel that the money paid for food represents in large part a return to the farmer who produces the food also is not justified by the facts, he asserts.

Horst referred to statistics of the U. S. Bureau of Labor which showed that the non-farm family which had an income in 1929 of $1,858 spent $688 for all foods and $514 for a list of 58 food items, selected on the basis of their general use.

"Last year," Horst stated, "the income of that average family showed an advance to $2,323 and the cost of all food was only $505 and the retail cost of the 58 selected items was only $398, or a smaller percentage of income than was paid 22 years before."

"In other words, the cost of all food as a percentage of income in 1929 was 37 per cent., compared with 22 per cent. last year, the lowest on record, and the cost of the 58 selected items as a percentage of income was 28 per cent. in 1929, compared with the all-time low of 17 per cent. last year."

"This means that for all food less than one-fourth of the income is spent and only slightly less than one sixth of the income is spent for the most widely used food items."

In discussing the share of the consumer's dollar which is received by the farmer, Horst declared that "statistics show that on the basis of the 58 selected food items, at no time since 1913 has the farmer's share of the retail value of those items been above 55 per cent."

SUBSTITUTE FOR QUININE

Although medical science has been doing a great job of cleaning up tropical diseases, or finding a remedy for them, it is stumped by one problem. Typhoid and yellow fever have been checked, and in some cases practically eliminated, in the jungles of several continents. But against one scourge the scientists are almost helpless because they have been robbed of their chief weapon.

The scourge is malaria. The weapon is quinine. So far it has been impossible to eradicate the mosquito which bears the germ, but a certain amount of protection against the ailment as well as a remedy for malaria cases was provided by quinine. When the Japanese drove south in Malaya and thence into the East Indies, nearly the entire supply of this medical necessity was cut off. There isn't enough quinine to treat Allied soldiers on the tropical and semi-tropical fronts.

Unfortunately, the synthetics and substitute drugs which have been developed are not particularly effective. The situation is so serious that the chemical foundations of the Rockefeller Foundation and of Harvard University are devoting much of their time to the search for an anti-malaria synthetic which will be at least as potent as quinine and, it is hoped, even more effective.

It has been recorded that on Bataan the Americans and probably many of the Filipinos were forced to give up the struggle not because of exhaustion of ammunition but because the quinine tablets gave out. The president of the Rockefeller Foundation reports that ten days before Bataan was abandoned, 80 per cent of front line troops were suffering from malaria.

Other drugs not only fail to prevent development of the disease but even to eradicate the infection. As a result, the disease tends to spread with alarming rapidity. A synthetic quinine, if perfected, will have enormous military value.

MARKET INTRICACIES

Intricate market mazes produce constant headaches for officials seeking to regulate food supply. Lard, one of the foremost essentials of wartime, provides an instance of this.

Every effort has been made in the United States to replenish the supply. The lard output has been heavily increased, one of the goals being to step up the lard reserves. But the stores of lard have not mounted as the lard output has increased.

One explanation offered is that the only one is that, despite the heavier weight of hogs, production of lard has not increased proportionately because relatively low ceiling prices on lard and pork fats have resulted in a considerable part of the increased fat being sold with the meat. At the same time, packers report that home demand for lard and shortening has decreased to some extent due to curtailment of domestic baking operations.

More home-produced fat is being used than heretofore owing to the relatively high ration point value of refined lard and other shortening.

Negro vote and still holding the loyalty of the Southern States on the old grounds of sympathy, the South, it is said, can be played for a sucker twice but not the third time.

—o—

THE OTHER view is that there is no limit to the gullibility of the South, and that its ingrained habit of Democratic voting, plus other reasons, will nullify any tendency to revolt in 1944, poll tax or no poll tax. But, even if this is not so, the risk is worth taking, it is contended, because the big debatable States in the North where the Negro holds the balance of power, with their larger electoral votes, will more than offset any possible defections in the South.

OF COURSE all these are the arguments of the politicians and do not touch upon the principle involved. That is the constitutional right of the States to regulate their own elections and fix the qualifications of their own voters. If that right can be abridged by Congress in one direction it can be abridged in others and there is nothing to prevent complete Federal domination of the States. If that right is lost then the States do, in fact, become vassals of the national Administration and the great principle of local self-government, so inherent in the American Constitution, really dies. This is the possibility that makes the proposed repeal of concern to all the States and not only to those of the South.

John L. Pieters To Be Ordained Priest

his first solemn mass, it taking place in St. Mark's R. C. Church, at 11 o'clock.

The candidate for the priesthood will be one of more than 50 young men who will be ordained on Saturday, they coming from all parts of the diocese.

The Rev. Fr. Albert C. Glass, of St. Mark's parish, will serve as arch priest at the Sunday mass over which the new priest will officiate, and other priests will be in the chancel. Priests of St. Mark's parish will assist.

The student-priest is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pieters, of Edgely. He was born in Chicago, Ill. As a boy he attended parochial schools in Waukegan, Ill., and after moving to this section completed the eighth grade at St. Mark's school. He then studied for one year at Northeast Catholic high school, Philadelphia; and for the past two years has been studying at St. Charles Borromeo Seminary, Overbrook.

At the ordination ceremony on Saturday the Rev. Fr. Paul Baird will serve as sponsor for the Edgely in the name of the Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Murphy, rector of St. Mark's Church.

OUR VICTORY GARDEN

"Man With Hoe" Is "Man Behind The Gun"

By Jane Cochran

(N. S. Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, May 28—(INS)—We all know how essential Victory Gardens are to our country's food supply; that every bit of food we can add to our nation's dinner tables will help in the war.

But did you ever get downright mercenary in considering the Victory Garden, and figure out just what that garden will produce for you in terms of point values? If you haven't, you're in for a pleasant surprise. You know how few cans of fruit and vegetables your point allotment will provide, now let's see what a Victory Garden will provide.

How to Save Points

A garden plot, 30 by 50 feet—a fairly ample Victory Garden—will produce over 3,000 points worth of beans, tomatoes and beets alone. That's over a whole year's allotment of points for a family of five, and the point values of the other vegetables in your garden will swell the total to a high figure.

The point values of your Victory Garden might seem amazing; but they're figured out by experts on the basis of average yields. The point values for the beans, tomatoes and beets are based on the assumption that all yields of these three would be canned. But if you could eat them raw, you'd still be eating the equivalent number of points.

The 30 by 50 garden used as the basis for the points figures is the one suggested in the U. S. Department of Agriculture "Victory Gardens" bulletin.

The garden plan calls for two rows of pole snap beans and two rows of bush beans, each row 50 feet long. From that you can normally expect a yield of five bushels which will make approximately 9 quarts of canned beans. The point value for each jar, if commercially canned, would be 21. A bit of multiplication and you can see that your beans are worth 945 points. Figured on the same basis, the two 50-foot rows of lima beans will equal 528 points. The garden's four rows of beets would cost you 900 points if purchased canned.

Apply this system to your whole garden and you'll see what a gold mine of points that vegetable plot really is.

Aside from what each can of home grown tomatoes or beans means to you in terms of points, you'll have the satisfaction of knowing you're helping feed our armed forces and our allies. Each can of food that you raise releases a commercially canned one to go to them.

You'll of course, get additional dividends from the exercise you get in planting and cultivating the garden.

A continuous supply of vegetables, not a lot of a few, should be your goal in the garden. If you plant too much of one vegetable at one time, it will produce a surplus, some of which is likely to go to waste. Then you'll find yourself facing a long period without vegetables.

Some vegetables are suited to planting at intervals over a long period to furnish a continuous supply. Others are suited only to one

Greens and Salad Leaves Rich in Needed Minerals

Nutrition experts consider the mineral content of foods as important as the vitamin content. The minerals needed in the largest quantities are calcium and phosphorus.

In planning the Victory Garden the principal question to be considered is whether there are particular crops to be grown for their mineral content, in addition to those which are vitamin-rich.

The answer is no. The vegetables which contribute vitamins to the diet, also contain minerals. Take for example calcium, which is required in the largest quantity and is most likely to be lacking in poorly planned diets. It is also the mineral expected to be scarcest under food rationing.

Children need more calcium than adults. While an adult requires 8 grams each day, adolescents require 14 grams and infants 2 grams. It builds strong bones and teeth, and is important in many bodily functions. Its principal source is milk and cheese; but after these come the green, leafy vegetables, the same that are richest in Vitamins A and C.

Here is a list of vegetables containing calcium, given in the order of their value, the richest first: Green outer leaves of cabbage, turnip greens, mustard greens, collards, kale, watercress, broccoli, endive, Swiss chard, beet greens, dandelion greens, celery, kohlrabi, spinach, okra, leaf lettuce, parsnips, leeks, turnips, snap beans, cabbage heads, carrots and onions.

The calcium content of vegetables will vary according to the presence of calcium in the soil. Soils most likely to be deficient are the black soils, newly plowed or spaded, from which the lime may have been washed out over a period of many years. Sandy soils and those in wooded sections also are likely to need lime.

Lime is easily added, preferably in the form of fine limestone, applied before the garden is spaded, and thoroughly mixed with the soil. Lime has great value in stimulating growth of plants, also.

Kale Is One of the Best Green Leafy Foods

Though not a fertilizer, it makes plant food present in the soil more available to the plants.

Phosphorus is contributed by the following garden vegetables, given in the order of their value: Fresh lima beans, green peas, parsnips, collards, loose cabbage leaves, and broccoli. It is also found in many other foods which will be reasonably abundant under rationing, so it is not necessary to grow any vegetables especially to provide it.

The green, leafy foods which are so valuable for their vitamins and calcium are also good contributors of iron. Many vegetables not listed as rich in calcium, contain some of this as well as other minerals. One does not expect to get all his quota of any vitamin or mineral from any one dish, as a rule. But in planning the menu, there should be a good representation of the foods which contain these vital elements; and this year you cannot count on having enough of them, unless you plan to grow many in your Victory Garden.

certain period of the growing season, and successive plantings are to plant a garden that will produce all season.

There's no set of rules for laying out a garden that will fit all garden plots. You have to fit your garden to the ground it's to grow in. In general, rows should run north and south, if possible, to allow equal distribution of sun.

But if the garden plot slopes appreciably and is subject to washing of the soil, the rows should not run up and down hill. If the plot is nearly level, the rows can be run the long way of the area for convenience of working. There is, however, a psychological advantage to having short rows—they make cultivation seem easier as you have a short rest at the end of each row.

Tall growing crops should be placed preferably on the north or west side of the garden so that they will not shade the low ones.

HULMEVILLE

All members of William Penn Fire Co. are requested by company officials to be present at the fire station at 12:30 p. m., Sunday, to participate in the Memorial Day parade.

Residents are reminded that the parade preceding Memorial Day ceremony here on Sunday will leave Main street and Reetz avenue at one p. m. sharp. The route will be up Main street, to Hulmeville, to the Beechwood Cemetery. The Rev. Adolphe Glen Cloud will be the speaker, with other special features in charge of Jesse W. Soby Post, No. 148, American Legion.

A request is made by Burgess Leon R. Comly, Chief of the Defense Council Orville Morris and Chief of the Air Raid Wardens John Egly, Jr., that all defense units be at the corner of Main street and Reetz avenue on Sunday at one p. m., to participate in the Memorial Day parade. This includes emergency police, air raid wardens, first aid group, motor corps members, etc.

Greatest Show On Earth Aids Bond Drive

With Robert, Audrey and Mrs. Charles Ringling, owners, in harness and running in person the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, which will exhibit in Philadelphia, G street between Erie and Wyoming, two weeks, beginning Monday, May 31st, the cooperation they initiated with the U. S. Treasury Department and the ODT last winter is clicking daily.

Following the New York and Boston engagements' opening nights when only purchasers of war bonds were admitted, the Ringlings have set aside an honor section at afternoon and night performances in every stand for bond buyers, a procedure planned with Treasury Department representatives in February. At the same time the Ringling family arranged to meet all the requirements of the ODT, which then approved the 1943 railroad tour, subject of course, to troop and war supply movements. To date, the Big Show has moved on schedule, for the Ringlings have extended the length of engagements in almost all cities in order to stay off the railway lines as much as possible. Further to relieve the railroads, the management has made many one-day stands into two-day stays.

Performances will be given at 12:30 and 8:15 p. m., with doors open at 11:30 and seven.

Urges Italians to Choose Peace Rather Than Destruction

London—A new suggestion that the Italian people choose peace rather than destruction from the air was voiced by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, in a speech at Portofino.

"Italy is wide open to air attack," he said. "This will be pressed home with all means in our power. It is for the Italian people to decide whether they are to endure bombardment to the bitter end and when it is to stop."

Eden recalled the day during the early stages of the war when Premier Mussolini asked Adolf Hitler for the "privilege" of sharing in the bombardment of London.

Teachers' Salaries About 60 to 65% Of School Expenses

monetary interpretation of the school program considered necessary and essential for the community which the board of education serves. To the degree that communities want and desire good schools will they give support and encouragement to school directors in the promotion of such a plan. No school director wants to spend money which will not be reflected in sound returns to the credit of the community. But on the other hand, good returns for money invested cannot be expected unless the investment is sound.

Investment of public funds are made in school buildings, in books, supplies, equipment and teachers. The latter generally costs from 60 to 65% of all expenditures. It is only reasonable to expect that from this source we should expect the greatest returns. The investment in well-trained, experienced and sympathetic teachers is the only way in which to expect satisfactory returns to the community in proportion to the share invested. When we fail to obtain the best teachers or when we fail to hold the best trained and qualified teachers, we are then investing money for which the community has meager returns. The old saying "It takes money to make money" is well applied in public schools. It takes money to give us the best returns, except that we do not look for returns in terms of dollars but in terms of value beyond the measure of monetary standards, even though financial values in a community increase in direct proportion to the value of the money wisely spent in public education.

It is this problem of being able to hold on to well-qualified teachers and to obtain well-qualified teachers which has faced the Bristol Borough School Board for years. Other districts were willing to pay more for good teachers, so that in many instances we lost persons who had a very fine influence on young people and who were also exceptional teachers.

Recently this has been acute in Bristol as well as elsewhere. Salaries and wages in other fields increased so rapidly that many teachers could not resist the lure of higher wages and resigned. But let it not be said that higher wages alone caused serious conditions. Teachers who were willing to remain in the profession faced the almost impossible problem of living on a wage scale, low even in normal times, but now cut in its usefulness 20 to 30 per cent by increased living costs.

In the opinion of the school board, teachers must receive more money in order to meet present economic conditions, but equally important as an inducement to obtain and hold on to the type of teacher necessary to return to Bristol young people well-trained in essentials, and particularly in democratic ideals, both for the completion of our present struggle and for the still larger problems of the post-war period. If at that time we find our schools weak, we will not complete the task of winning the peace.

Until such time when local funds will take care of the salary program necessary for the retention of a strong personnel, the State of Pennsylvania has granted increases to teachers which will help considerably. Most elementary teachers will receive $250 increase, with several receiving $300. Some high school teachers will receive $250, the majority $200 and a few $150.

Even these increases do not bring the salary to a point commensurate with the responsibility of the position, the cost of an education and the need for occasional post-graduate work. The coming few years will bring the solution of this problem as one of the major issues confronting the school board. Along with other problems which will be mentioned in these articles, current revenue will not be sufficient to solve the difficulties.

Egg prices took a rather sudden drop at the combination auction held yesterday afternoon on the property of the Rice brothers, near Solebury. The best prices which could be received for the eggs, the sale of which amounted to $253, ranged from 22 to 28 cents a dozen.

Attendance at the sale was somewhat smaller than usual, it having been estimated about 600 persons were there. Proceeds of the entire sale amounted to $1653.18. The sale of the poultry, the top price of which was 30 cents a pound, amounted to $1452.06.

The offering of livestock was somewhat larger than usual, and a large portion of it was sold. Thirteen cows were offered, but only six were sold at prices which ranged from $69 to $119. Of the ten heifers offered, four ranged in selling price from $35 to $42.50. As usual, there was no difficulty in disposing of the calves. The 34 placed on sale ranged in price from $6 to $38. Two of the six bulls offered brought $50 and $55 and ten goats ranged in selling price from $2 to $15.

Speaking on the subject, "Youth, Whose Responsibility?" on the occasion of the 50th annual convention of the Sixth District of the Bucks County Sabbath School Association held Tuesday evening in the chapel of the Doylestown Presbyterian Church, William Downey listed a number of difficulties experienced in Sunday schools, and one of these, he said, is the lack of the proper teacher preparation.

Speaking from the viewpoint of a Sunday School teacher, Mr. Downey named two other difficulties in the Sunday School, and these, he said, often are the lack of good examples on the part of the teachers and the failure on the part of the teachers to bring out Christian facts into every day common sense. The latter failure, said Mr. Downey, has a tendency to alienate the pupil from the church school.

Mr. Downey said the Sunday school teachers and their friends in the Sunday School help the pupils to gain a favorable impression of Christianity more than any other group or individual in the church.

BRISTOL HIGH NINE SCORES WIN OVER BENSALEM TEAM

Bunnies Tie Owls for 2nd Place Honors In Circuit

FINAL SCORE IS 3 TO 1

Both McDevitt and Deans Do Fine Job of Pitching

Bristol High finally broke into the baseball win column, scoring a 3-1 victory over the Bensalem High School yesterday afternoon on the home field. The triumph enabled the Bunnies to tie the Owls for second place honors in the Lower Bucks circuit. Langhorne won the championship with four straight wins.

Both Joe McDevitt and Hugh Deans, the opposing hurlers, did a fine job on the hill. McDevitt fanned eight batters, one less than Deans. The Bristol moundman was a trifle wild and issued 2 passes. Both boys allowed a trio of bingles.

The localites jumped on the scoring wagon in the first inning, pushing across two runs with the aid of three errors. Bristol did not get a hit this frame. However in the second, Leo Johnson connected for a three bagger and a moment later, Bill Crossan drove him across with a clean hit to center. That represented all the Bristol scoring.

The Bensalem team was runless for the first four frames and then McDevitt ran into a little difficulty. With one gone, Trapp drew a pass and Rief reached base on an error. Sammel hit safely to center and Trapp crossed but Hughes fled out to left to end the frame.

Jack Sackville, Bristol's left-gardener, had a busy afternoon in the outfield, basking five flies. Joe Elmer played well on the infield as did Lombardo of the visiting aggregation.

GRAND THEATRE

The story of a destroyer, the H. M. S. Torrion, which went down in the Battle of Crete, Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve," which is due for its local premiere today at the Grand Theatre, shows in dramatic manner how the men who sail in this ship are bound to her in love and sacrifice, yet live their own lives apart in the warm circle of their families.

From the launching of the Torrion, until its last moments when it lies sadly on its side in the war-torn Mediterranean, it is the ship in which they serve steadfastly and gallantly, and for whose glory

Free the Seas

Before we win the final battle with Hitler's Nazis all navy men are agreed we must win the battle of the Atlantic; that is to free the seas of the German U-boats.

A year ago we were building 54 cruisers and nearly 200 destroyers or just about enough for a two ocean navy.

RITZ THEATRE

Miss Diana Barrymore is living up to the Royal Family traditions. She is being very dramatic and is not leaving any teeth-marks in the scenery, either.

In fact, it is reported that she was the delight of her latest director, Tim Whelan, who piloted her before the cameras in "Nightmare," coming today to the Ritz Theatre. Diana is co-starred with Brian Donlevy in the new film which marks her third appearance on the screen.

LANGHORNE

Lt. and Mrs. William Lee Guckes were in Langhorne on Sunday. Lt. Guckes, who has been stationed at Orlando, Fla., is home on a ten days leave. On June 1st he will report to Camp Davis, N. C.

The Friendly Sewing Circle enjoyed a trip to Philadelphia on Wednesday to see "Blossom Time" at the Forrest Theatre.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward X. Longshore, Titusville, N. J., were Sunday guests of Mr. Longshore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Longshore.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBERSON

An interesting booklet for sportsmen, "Pennsylvania Wildlife," known as Bulletin No. 18 of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, should appeal to all lovers of wildlife. It is splendidly illustrated with 20 full color reproductions of the game birds and game and fur-bearing animals of the Commonwealth, as well as numerous photographs depicting some of the conservation programs which are being carried on in the interest of wildlife. Each species of bird and animal is treated individually and simply, which makes the publication of particular value to all. The Bulletin also contains chapters on the early history of Pennsylvania's wildlife, its subsequent depletion, and interestingly recounts the period of rehabilitation leading up to the Commonwealth's present day reputation of one of the leading game states. Chapters on protecting game, propagation research, restocking, education, training and management are included. This booklet can be secured from the Game Commission, Harrisburg, for 25c a copy.

At the overflow at Silver Lake practically every person who has been fishing during the past few days has been catching catfish. The last few days has also seen a nice number of fair-sized carp taken at the same spot.

Big catfish are still being caught in the Nesquehanna Creek, according to George Cherry, proprietor of Cherry's Boat Wharf, Bridgewater. He states that a party of Philadelphians, fishing from a boat near the mouth of the Creek, made a large catch last week-end. One catfish on the string was said to have weighed 5 pounds.

monthly meeting of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association at 8 P. M. in the Odd Fellows Hall.

A guest editorial in the June issue of Field & Stream magazine, written by Glenn L. Martin, head of a huge bomber building plant, is so full of solid, wholesome thought that we think you will enjoy its reprinting in this column. The editorial, which is inserted in a picture which shows an angler fishing while big bombers fly overhead, follows:

"The man you see here in this quiet stream is a loyal American. He is the kind of man who will work six grueling days a week helping us to build the big, sleek bombers that will carry bad news to Tokio and Berlin. Being a normal man, he gets tired, for work in a modern war plant is a high-speed proposition. Some relaxation and recreation are vitally important.

"If I could have my way, every man and woman on the production line would spend every seventh day in the outdoors, hunting or fishing preferably, but out in the open where they can best restore their mental and bodily energies. Much of the present-day absenteeism in war production plants is directly due to a failure of these energies, brought on by too many hours and too many days spent on the job without the proper kind of rest. Actually, there is a very small amount of deliberate, willful absenteeism in our war production.

"If, however, men on the production line are allowed to work for many days at a stretch, they finally reach a point where neither mind nor body will function properly, and as a result we can expect both mistakes and accidents, brought on by reflexes which have been slowed up by fatigue. Such men must then take time off, and only too often they spend this time in places of amusement where not only is the air far from pure, but where overindulgence is brought on by the very exhaustion of their minds and bodies. As a result, when their day of liberty is over, they are unfit to return to their job. Not only do they fail to do a full job of work on the production line, but they actually become menaces to their fellow workmen and to the war effort. How much better it would be if these men would get out into the open country. In the sunlight and pure air, in the quiet of hills and streams and lakes!

"Those of us who know and love our outdoor America are well aware of the mental and physical benefits of fishing and hunting, the easing of taut nerves and the healthy tiredness after a day in the open air. Fishing is one of the things that keep men fit—and fit men build good bombers!"
